CARPING THE UNITED STATES MAIL. The weather has been too mild and money has been searce; consequently the Fur trade has not been what we had anticipated when we commenced manufacturing early in the season. We expected from day to day that the weather would get cold and that trade would revive, but, like our neighbors, we have one disappointed, and we find ourselves with a very large stock on hand after the Holiday trade is over. We did not diminish our orrec until last week, as we had a large lot of elegant skins which we wished to have made up for Holiday trade, and although we have had a fair trade, we did not have what we expected.

We have on hand an elegant stock of goods made from skins which were properly cured and dressed belore being used, so that every article is perfect a every particular. We have decided that it is better to turn our large stock into each rather than earry it over during the summer. We will therefore offer to the public from this date $68,000 worth of strictly first class Furs at our actual cost of manufacturing, and will continue the sale until the entire stock is closed out.
